PAUL FINDLEY, BRIDE BUILDING HOME HERE

Awaiting completion of their new home at 4511 Sharynne Lane are the new Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Findley, who were married by Friday, May 28.

The bride, the former Miss Doris Lorraine Cline of Compton, and groom, son of the Paul Findleys, 2121 Gramery Ave., left for a brief honeymoon at Monterey immediately following the wedding reception at the Guild Hall, attended by some 150 relatives and friends. Until their Torrance home is ready for occupancy, they will live in Compton.

Given in marriage by her father, Rufus M. Cline of Little Rock, Calif., the bride selected pink lace over matching taffeta for her wedding costume. Pink net gloves, a matching hat, and a white prayer book topped with single white orchid tied with white and pink ribbons completed her attire.

Carrying out the color motif in a pale pink nylon dotted with swiss over matching taffeta was the maid of honor, Rose Rossi, who carried a Colonial bouquet of pink roses. Carl E. Williams of Compton served as best man.

Prior to the marriage service, read by the Rev. Walter Stanton, the bride's uncle, Clifford C. Owen, sang "Through the Years" and "Because," accompanied by Virginia Woods at the organ. While the couple knelt at the altar, the bride's sister, Irene Hay, sang "The Lord's Prayer." The new Mr. and Mrs. both are graduates of Torrance High School. He received his discharge from the U. S. Navy in March and is currently employed at Two-Mack's Electric.

The girls then repeated the Girl Scout Promise, and walked across the bridge to meet Mesdames Robert Sorenson and Ted Aarup, Girl Scout leaders, who gave them their pins.

Reflections

By J. HUGH SHERFEEY, JR.

THE REAL GOOD

There stands in Boston a statue of an Irish-American, John Boyle O'Reilly. This man had been arrested, sentenced to death, escaped, and landed in Boston penniless but happy to be alive. Within his 46-year life-span he captured the hearts of his adopted city and acquired part ownership of the Boston Pilot.

He had a simple creed: "What is the real good," he asked in musing mood. "Order," says the law court; "Knowledge," says the school; "Truth," says the wise man; "Peace," says the poet; "Love says the maiden; "Beauty," says the page; "Freedom," says the dreamer; "Home," says the sage; "Fame," says the soldier; "Equity," claims the seer; "Spake my heart, "The answer is not here." Then within his bosom, softly this he heard, "Each heart hold the secret: Kindness is the word."
